

Alvaro Galindo, Executive Director

Alvaro Galindo is a native from Colombia, South America. After serving in the Colombian Army for a short period he came to the U.S. and obtained a Bachelor of Science in Aeronautical Science and a Master of Business Administration in Aviation (MBA) from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University. He received all his pilot licenses (including his flight instructor's certificates, CFI, CFII, and MEI) from the same school, and today he holds an Airline Transport License (ATP).

Alvaro has gained a diversified aviation experience. He started his career working for an aircraft broker in South Florida involved in the Latin American sector. In addition to the aviation industry he assisted another Embry-Riddle Alumni at Bank of America who was V.P. of Investment Banking, performing financial analysis and customer support. Alvaro worked in the airline cargo sector as well for an International 121 airline based in Miami, where he started as a Load Master moving up to a Cargo Operations Manager position, supervising all the cargo operations procedures as well as providing Hazmat and Weight and Balance training to Load Masters and flight crews.

Today Alvaro Galindo serves as a Captain for a regional airline as well as Executive Director for InterFlight Consulting and InterFlight Brokerage.